THIS HISTORIC PROPERTY

To Be Sold Under the Hammer Next Tuesday.

THE Emerson Park and Residence, one of the most beautiful properties in the State, will be sold at sheriff's sale in partition Tuesday, April 24th. The title is clear and perfect, and he who buys may obtain immediate possession. The grounds are historic and have a celebrity as wide as the Union; the dwelling is a fine brick structure of generous dimensions, with modern conveniences. The inside finish is artistic, of rare and costly material, and is everywhere indicative of the taste of the owner under whose direction the building was completed and furnished—the late Judge J. W. Emerson. The Park embraces about eight acres of rolling greenward, magnificently shaded. A never-failing spring of pure water wells from under the famous "Grant Oak" and supplies the adjoining Sylvan Lake, teeming with fish. The outbuildings are in accordance with their surroundings. This property will be sold outright and the chances are that it will go far below its real value. It offers an unusual opportunity to him who is seeking a desirable and elegant home.

kept up at night. Well, we can hardly see the justice of the proposition. If it is right for our cow to annoy and harass you all day long she should be accorded the same privilege at night.

There is in our little city too much of a disposition to obstruct the sidewalks and neglect them. In one or two instances where there are brick walks, they have been neglected and are out of repair. At night, to one unacquainted with them, they are positively dangerous. This condition of affairs should not be permitted.

We have a very pleasant letter from our old friend, Horace E. Pease, now located near Boise City, Idaho. He says that they had more snow and rain the past winter than any season since he has been out west, and that means good crops this year. Mr. Pease's many friends in the Valley will be glad to know that he is getting along very nicely.

M. Joseph will have a professional auctioneer here from St. Louis, Monday, April 23d, to conduct the auction sale of his general stock of merchandise. The sale will continue throughout the week and everything will be sold. All articles auctioned separately, nothing put up in bunches, so you can buy as little as you want. Remember the place, south of courthouse square.

Mrs. Thornton, widow of Editor Thornton, who died of small pox, has sufficiently recovered from her illness last Saturday to make a trip to St. Louis, where she has a son in a hospital. Mrs. Thornton announces that she expects to return to Bellevue and continue the publication of the Banner. Mrs. Thornton, although she nursed her husband while he had the disease, did not take the small pox.

The spring opening at the Lopez Store Company last Friday attracted the usual large crowd of visitors, all day long the store was thronged with ladies who admired and praised the many lovely things in spring and summer millinery which greeted their eyes. Miss Kate and her assistants had arranged a most beautiful and attractive display, and many were the compliments they received. Cake plates and sugar bowls were given as souvenirs.

A number of fishermen hereabouts are complaining because of the failure of the State Game Warden to take any action in reference to the dam across the St. Francis river in Madison county. It is contended that the said dam is a plain violation of the game and fish law, and that it should be provided with a fish-way or torn down. It is claimed that if this obstruction was removed, fish would be much more plentiful in Stout's creek and other streams. Although his attention has been called to the matter the warden has, up to this time, taken no action.

MARRIED—At the residence of Rev. J. G. Reynolds in Ironton, Mo., Thursday, April 12, 1906, at 2:30 o'clock, P. M., Edward R. Curtis and Miss Clara L. Hanson, Rev. J. G. Reynolds officiating. After the ceremony Mr. Curtis and his bride boarded a train for St. Louis, where they spent a couple of days and then returned to Ironton. They are now in Elvins, where Mr. Curtis has employment as a salesman and where they will make their future home. Miss Clara is one of the sweetest, loveliest girls ever reared in this city, and we congratulate the bridegroom on the prize that he has won. The REGISTER wishes the young couple every happiness.

Easter was celebrated at St. Paul's church in a fitting manner. The church with its furnishings had been so profusely and tastefully decorated with cut flowers and plants that it was, indeed, a place of beauty. The music was of a high order and all the services were impressive. The enthusiasm and the unanimity with which the people worked to make everything connected with the services worthy of the occasion, combined with the loyalty with which they attended them, warrants the belief that the day was rich with spiritual good for the parish. The offerings, which excelled those of last Easter, will be almost altogether devoted to extra parochial purposes. The Sunday school festival was a decided success, and the pupils acquitted themselves with so much credit that we shall look forward with pleasure to the next festival occasion.

Something less than ten Republicans met in the courthouse last Saturday afternoon and selected delegates to a county convention. Similar meetings are supposed to have been held in the various townships throughout the county, and all the delegates will meet here in county convention, May 5th, to nominate a county ticket. We think it would be perfectly safe to say that not more than twenty-five people participated in all the meetings held in the county last Saturday, and yet those twenty-five people nominate the ticket in Iron county. And when it is nominated the voter will be asked to support it on the plea that he is voting against the ring and bossism. It is very doubtful if in the past fifteen years the Republicans of Iron county have ever nominated a ticket that as many as one hundred men have taken part in nominating.

The following from the last issue of the Potosi Journal is all right: "A young lady who has been visiting friends in this locality lately is the subject of a good joke that is receiving many tellings, and blushing acknowledges it when queried as to the veracity of the tale. One afternoon not long since her hostess beheld an old man at her front door. Feeling that he was an agent she spoke to her guest asking her to go to the door and say they did not care for any of his goods. The guest went, greeted the senile agent kindly and was informed by him that he was selling nursery goods. 'I am sorry,' she replied, 'but we have no babies here,' and saying 'good day,' closed the door. She noted the peculiar expression of the purveyor of shrubs, but not until she had seated herself did it dawn upon her that it was not nursing bottles the man had."

A few patches of ground in this county have been planted to alfalfa with good results, and greatly increased acreage is likely this year. In this connection the following, taken from a recent issue of the National Live Stock Journal, is not without local interest. Mr. Welker is son-in-law to the late Dr. N. C. Griffith, and T. P. Russell is a son of the late Giles Russell of Arcadia: "J. M. Welker, manager of the Alfalfa Farming Co. of Pemiscot county, Mo., was here this morning with a six-car string of cattle and a load of hogs. The 102 head were graded. Short-horn, plain, fat steers averaging 1171 pounds and sold at $4.80 per cwt. They had been fed corn and alfalfa hay since November 20th last, and up to the time that the alfalfa hay gave out made an average gain of a fraction over 2-1/2 pounds per day per head, which was a better average gain than the steers made when the alfalfa was not used, as was shown by the fact that they have scales located on their farm and the cattle were weighed each month. The Alfalfa Farming Co., of which T. P. Russell of Cape Girardeau, and C. L. Whitener of Fredericktown, are principal owners, and J. M. Welker the active manager, owns 1320 acres of land, 60 acres of which was sown to alfalfa in April, 1904, and they harvested three crops from it that year, and last year five crops were taken from the field. This year they are adding 10 acres more, and Mr. Welker says that from present indications they will harvest the first crop not later than the 20th of May. Mr. Welker is an alfalfa enthusiast, and says that one thing that will seem strange to the average person, but which he can demonstrate to be an absolute fact, is that meadow land in the Southeast part of Missouri, where he resides, when seeded to alfalfa, will rent for $20 per acre, and the gain that was made by the large bunch of steers which he brought to market to-day certainly demonstrates that he knows how to feed to get the best returns for labor and feed, and that the alfalfa he raises is of the kind that won the prize at the World's Fair. He is also a public spirited and prominent man of Pemiscot county, and recently represented that county in the Legislature."

From the Sunnyside Magazine for March we reproduce the following: "William Trauernicht, the well-known tailor and clothier of Middlebrook, is one of the richest men in Southeast Missouri, every dollar of his money having been made by his own energy and enterprise. He was born at Pilot Knob, reared at Ironton, learned his trade at Farmington and St. Louis and established himself in business in 1878 with $25.00 worth of stock. In the days when Iron county was turning out iron he employed usually twelve tailors, now he has five, mostly raised in the shop and been with him many years. Many of the leading tailors of Southeast Missouri were trained by him. Mr. Trauernicht is a man of original ideas and has introduced into his business improved methods of making clothing, so that his coats will hold their shape so long as there is a piece of them left; his customers are scattered all over the country from Maine to California. Mr. T. has helped to organize and capitalize a number of flourishing institutions in this section, some of them being the bank, flour mill, hotel and hotel annex at Bismarck, Mo.; the St. Francois County Electric Railway, Arcadia Creamery, and the Caledonia Bank. He has a natural history collection, mineral specimens and interesting articles used in the daily life of peoples from all over the world. Everything in this museum was made a present to him. Mr. Trauernicht is a Knight Templar and a Shriner. He has been postmaster at Middlebrook for the past 26 years demonstrating that he is a good Republican and a good Democrat, a broad minded man with many friends and no enemies, a splendid entertainer and always ready to assist in public improvements and the advancement of his fellowman. He married Fredericka Block, the charming daughter of one of the oldest families at Middlebrook, and has a family of two fine sons."

Murphy Bryan, a railroad engineer, was killed in a wreck three miles south of Bismarck on the Belmont branch, at 11:25 o'clock A. M. Monday. The engine with a caboose and one car was backing to Cornwall, where a train had been set out and was to be taken north. The train men say that they were running about ten miles an hour, when they struck a curve, the engine toppled over and the engineer was buried beneath the wreck and scalded to death. It is thought that the wreck was occasioned by the fact that the tender was overloaded with coal; there being no coaling station between Bismarck and Cornwall, a sufficient supply for the round trip had to be loaded on before leaving Bismarck, making the tender top-heavy. The fireman, Albert Trauernicht, son of Robert Trauernicht of Irondale, jumped from the engine and escaped with a few bruises. The car and caboose did not leave the track and the other members of the crew were uninjured. The train was in charge of Conductor Walter Black and Ed. Counts and John Stricklin were the brakemen. The deceased engineer was a son of Postmaster S. D. Bryan of Bismarck and made his home in that town. He was married and his wife survives him. Mr. Bryan was very popular in his home, and the news of his death cast a gloom over the entire community.

Roger Wadlow has retired from the race for prosecuting attorney in Reynolds county. His letter of withdrawal, which is somewhat out of the usual order, is printed below: "I hereby serve notice to the general public of my withdrawal from the race for prosecuting attorney of Reynolds county. In doing so I wish to tender my sincere thanks to the many voters who have so strongly solicited me to make this race. (And their name is legion.) No fears of defeat prompt me to make this withdrawal. No scheming or wily politicians have affected me in the least; neither has my father asked me to withdraw. He has had no word to say in it; yea nor nay. In withdrawing, I do so of my own volition. I am fully cognizant of the step I am taking and do it of my own accord. Rather than make a house-to-house canvass; rather than be a 'vote-beggar'; rather than do all this, I have resolved to banish all thoughts of ever being a political aspirant. And I conscientiously and deliberately consign all such of my ambitions to the avaricious 'gods' of destruction, hoping that they will make short work of the same. Again I thank my friends for their interest in my behalf, but I do not think that I can afford to enter politics so long as I can earn a better 'living' outside. It was in obedience to your requests that I entered the race, and the consciousness of disappointing you is the only thing that mars the perfect happiness of my retirement."
